Book Review

Universal Station. Author, Beth Brown. Regent House, publishers, New York.

In this original and highly thoughtful work, the author has gone far in imaginative thought. Beth Brown is a student of the history of different religions, and she states this point as a fact, "I listened to the one God." She asks this of her readers, "Be sure you look between the lines for what is there for you."

This story is of Jonny who loses his life on earth only to find himself alive on the other side of life. Then Nancy, his sweetheart, who had promised that nothing on earth or in heaven could break their bond of love. Universal Station, a not-so-mystical place half way between this earth and heaven; you meet Jonny and Nancy, you also meet all sorts of head men in the scheme of thought. And you will want to meet them all in this entertaining and inspiring story.

Regent House has scored a big hit in this find for a sensation in thought.

—Kathleen S. Fuller.

The Nature of Maine. Author, Marion J. Bradshaw. Bradshaw Printing Service, Alliance, Ohio.

When a philosopher, an artist and a Christian gentleman conspire together in one heart, soul and head, to do things with completeness, they are apt to be done to a turn.

In this brilliantly remarkable book, with pictures which charm and classic essay for the reader, giving wells of worthy reflection for the mind to draw from, one finds this a new order of book, comparison to one by this author published in 1941, entitled "The Maine Land," a chain of golden thoughts. The continuous text of this book, the author tells us, is inadequate to express adequately the wondrous beauty, the great God of life has given to this portion of His firmament. Mr. Bradshaw has used typical scenes, with difficulty found in choosing which to use as most perfect specimens.

Dr. Bradshaw keeps this thought ever in the mind—"Nature is full of spirit. Man sees more with his mind than with his eyes." There are many heart thrilling lessons to be learned in both story and pictures revealed here, as one views the work of an Almighty hand, and in places we find an almost reverence shown by man in not disturbing the heavenly naturalness.

This book has that needed quality to teach this hurried world the love of nature's beauty so generously bestowed all about us. Dr. Bradshaw has the highest sense of humor blended perfectly with a keen appreciation of logic and higher thinking. A book to take to your heart for a better understanding of life to the full.

—Kathleen S. Fuller.

Maine Topics Discussed and There Was a Joint Installation

Megunticook Grange, Camden, was host to Limerock Valley Pomona Grange Saturday.

The subject of the program was "The State of Maine" and Mrs. Lucia Hopkins, lecturer, was in charge. The subject proved to be very interesting and the following numbers were presented: "Song, 'Come to Maine' by members; greeting, Past Master May B. Young; response, Scott Rackliff; Indian Tableau, William Annis, Bertha Annis, Mildred Roberts, Arnold and David Hopkins as the "Indians"; brief history of Maine and her boundaries, J. Herbert Gould; Shipbuilding Days in Maine, Sara R. Young; reading, "The Builders," Lillian Rackliff; Schools and Colleges of Maine, F. L. S. Morse; humorous skit, "This Pomona Grange 10 Years from Now," Lois Dauette, May Young and Gertrude Waterman; The Maine Flowers, with Exhibitions, Mary Nash; address, "Maine and Its Future," Rev. Henry Beukelman.

The splendid address by the guest speaker, Brother Beukelman, presented many sides of Maine activities.

Nine Granges were represented at roll call.

The fifth degree was conferred on five candidates. A bountiful supper was served to about 100 members, with Sara Young as chairman.

In the evening a joint installation of Limerock Valley Pomona and Megunticook officers was held with J. Herbert Gould as installing officer ably assisted by Gertrude Water-

[EDITORIAL]

WALDO BLUEBERRY GROWERS

When the Waldo County Blueberry Growers' Association met the other day it went on record as favoring legislation for the institution of an experimental blueberry farm, and incidentally elected J. Asbury Pitman, formerly of Appleton as chairman of the Associations committee. Dr. Pitman has devoted most of his life to educational pursuits, and now that he has retired, back he comes to play his part in Maine's agricultural progress. He has already become a considerable factor in the blueberry industry, wrestling comfortable revenue from the acres over which he roamed during his boyhood. The proposition to establish an experimental blueberry farm wears the earmarks not only of practical science, but of good common sense. Knox County, where the blueberry industry has become so profitable, may have similar views, but if the growers have not already done so it would seem that they could give consideration to the proposition.

SEVEN MEN ARE BLAMED

At last they have fixed the criminal responsibility for the tragic circus fire which occurred in Hartford, Conn. last July, taking the lives of 168 persons and injuring 862 others. The blame has been placed upon two officials and five employees of the Ringling-Bailey combination. We do not know what action will be taken with them, but we do know that it cannot bring the dead back to life, or restore to normalcy the hundreds who were injured. If it can bring about legislation productive of greater safety for the public, the prolonged investigation will not have been made in vain.

RECORD YEAR FOR FISH

In these days when greater productivity of food products is so essential, it is gratifying to know that an all time record for fish landings is likely to be established in the present year. And it lends emphasis to the good fortune of New England folks that they live alongside an ocean which seems to possess an inexhaustible supply of seafood. The country is turning more and more to this popular form of diet, the sales territory of which would seem to know no limitation if properly publicized.

IT MAY SHORTEN THE WAR

Appearances, it goes without saying, are deceptive. The fact of the matter is that Von Rundstedt did us a service when he embarked on the counteroffensive which set our Army back on its heels a few weeks ago. In the long run he probably reduced the awful price we are paying in precious human lives. As a result of what happened in Belgium, Washington is really putting the heat on, and the net result will be to finish the best conducted war we have ever fought sooner than would otherwise have been possible. And don't be surprised if Mr. Churchill proves to be right when he says that the interval between the European and the Asiatic war is shorter than had been anticipated.

The drastic measures proposed by the President in his message on the state of the Union are of value chiefly for their effect on the enemy. If he had any doubt about it, these measures will convince our foes that America means business. But the odds against passage of a National Service law are about 100 to 1. The reason is that, if such a measure was necessary, we should have had such a law the day after Pearl Harbor. We shall probably start to conscript 4-F's into industry, and why not? They will doubtless be glad to serve. We have no reason to assume that 4-F's are any less patriotic than the rest of us. Compulsory peacetime conscription is something we should take up after the war is over.

The mobilization of nurses to look after our wounded boys is a matter of urgent importance. Unless the nurses come forward, they will be drafted. Make no mistake about that. Both the senior and junior Senators from Massachusetts, David I. Walsh and Leverett Saltonstall, see eye to eye on that. So do all the other members of the 79th Congress. —Charles A. Merrill in the Boston Sunday Globe.

Basketball Battles

The Rockland Junior High basketball team, coached by Lawrence O'Dell, which has won six straight games, will be out to make it seven Wednesday night, when it will play the Lincoln Junior High at the Community Building at 6.30 p. m. To date it has defeated Thomaston Freshmen, Rockland Junior Varsity (2 games) and Camden Freshmen. Members of the team are Jim Connellan, David Holden, Richard Kaler, Earl Bartlett, John Hughes, Morris Powell, Charlie Foote, Anthony Gustin, Richard Pease, and Robert Grant.

It is hoped that Murgita, Gamble, and Thurston will join these members soon. Following this game the Rockland High boys and girls teams will meet Lincoln Academy boys and girls teams.

He will receive his crew training at an operational training field in the United States then go overseas. Hundreds of gunners are graduated each week from the huge gunners school near Fort Myers where the shooting ranges from skeet with a shotgun to firing from a power operated turret in the huge bombers over the Gulf of Mexico.

Mrs. Carl Holt, a teacher at the McLain Building, talked Christmas night with her husband, who is stationed at Pearl Harbor. Mrs. Holt was called several days before that by an overseas operator in order to arrange the day and hour for the call. The call came through exceptionally clear and it seemed to Mrs. Holt just as if her husband was in the next room. Mr. Holt also talked with their daughters, Betty and Hetty. Three minutes conversation was allowed, but actually it was carried on a little longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rich and Mr. and Mrs. George Fossett of Union were in Bangor Saturday. Mrs. Rich was presented the air medal and two bronze oak leaf clusters for her son Walter, who is a prisoner of war in Germany. The medals were presented in a military ceremony at the air base.

HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

A special Pitt Parker assembly was presented Thursday afternoon, when William Wallace, who has appeared over the Blue Network on "Hobby Lobby" and has astounded many by his remarkable ability to memorize, gave his program "Marvels of Memory." Mr. Wallace said that his miraculous feats of memory are possible by visualizing scientifically and obtaining a clear mental picture.

In his first demonstration, he memorized one-half a deck of cards, which had been called off by a student assistant, and later named them backwards, perfectly. Next, a student in the assembly took five cards from a full pack and

Thank You Ford Owners!

YOU OWNERS of Ford-built cars and trucks deserve great credit for your part in keeping one quarter of the nation's vital automotive transportation rolling. With shortages in manpower and parts, we've been able to do our share of the job only because you have been patient and cooperative. And we thank you!

• • • Repair needs mounted swiftly as cars grew older. Parts were scarce. We had to train mechanics and rebuild parts, engines and whole assemblies — normally factory jobs — in our own service departments, often at higher overtime costs.

• • • You saw and understood

our great problems. You set an example of fair play and common sense, and you helped us by being patient during this critical period.

• • • Your cars and trucks still have a long way to go. Probably they already have been driven much farther than normally would be the case. And even when new cars are produced again, it will be a long time before they are available for all who want them!

• • • Don't neglect your present car. Working together we can help you get all the "extra" miles that Ford built in! Keep on bringing your car "home" for the best service possible under wartime conditions.

The Weather

The Rexall folks had the laugh on me last Friday when I satirically referred to their calendar as promising rain that day. But with the temperature two degrees below zero in the morning and the wind coming out of the west, who would not have been satirical. Yet it did rain when night came on, so perhaps I had better be in a lenient mood when I look at the calendar today and find that it is going to be "agreeable." But it didn't feel that way when I faced the north-west wind this morning and read indications of snow in the sky. Ben Franklin was born 239 years ago tomorrow. If he were here today I should like to ask him when the war is going to end.

Carl Moran will speak at the Lions meeting tomorrow.

Maine's resident hunting and fishing licenses would be $2 each—an 85 cent increase over the current $1.15—and $3.50 for the combination under a bill which Jordan of Saco said he would introduce. Jordan estimated that in "normal times" increased fees would jump fish and game revenue from $175,000 to $320,000 annually.

Jordan expressed belief the increase was "highly necessary," because of added costs for labor, equipment and materials for the fish and game department, and added his proposal was endorsed "by many sportsmen in the State." "If we are to be successful in competing for the vacation trade after the war," he said, "we must be assured that our program of conservation and propagation is carried forward with all possible vigor and with sufficient funds."

He added increased conservation and propagation would "help us to keep faith with our boys in the service who expect to find good fishing and hunting when they return."

No change in Maine's State tax rate and no new taxes were proposed by Gov. Hildreth in his budget message to the 92d Legislature. The Governor outlined proposed expenditures of $78,053,362 for the next two years. The figure represented drastic reduction from the Departmental requests submitted to the Governor and his Budget Advisory Committee last Fall. The total was $16,322,596 higher than the $61,730,766 estimate of expenditures for the biennium ending this year.

S. Navy. Petty Officer Mullen stated today that "Any young man who is interested in the U. S. Navy must be enlisted prior to his eighteenth birthday. Community Concerts

Music Lovers Meet Tonight To Discuss Prospect of Outstanding Entertainments

Willard M. Sistare and Mrs. Marjorie Lee, New England representatives of the Community Concert Service division of Columbia Concerts, Inc., have been making a survey of the local situation and report much interest and enthusiasm over the prospect of organizing a local group.

They will outline the plan at the meeting and an open discussion will follow. Anyone interested in the plan is cordially invited to attend the meeting; and it is hoped that many will be on hand to take part in the discussion.

This is a means of bringing to the community a series of concerts by great artists and should have a strong community appeal as there is a wide interest in music in this vicinity.

There will be a meeting in the Tower Room of The Community Building at 7 o'clock tonight to consider the organization of a local Community Concert Association similar to those which are operating so successfully in Bath, Bangor, Waterville, Augusta, Sanford, Lewiston, Portland and 40 other New England communities as well as nearly 500 more throughout the country and in Canada.

These Associations present a series of at least three concerts by outstanding artists of The Metropolitan Opera Co., nationally known in concert, stage and radio as well as the foremost instrumentalists and ensembles. Concerts would be presented here during next season.

Vinalhaven Lions

Much Impressed With the Talk Made By Rev. Neal Bousfield

The Vinalhaven Lions Club met last Thursday at Union Church vestry, with a goodly attendance, filling the places at two tables. The menu of the regular circle supper was varied with the introduction of some piping hot clam chowder, which fitted right in with the program of the evening.

Although the mercury was hovering near the zero mark outside, with a couple of bowls of that hot chowder inside, a good Lion could roar with impunity at 20 below zero. In fact the chowder was so warming that before the meeting was over the window had to be raised and some of that zero air let into the room, to make things comfortable.

Due to the absence of Tail Twister Franklin Adams, who was called out of town by a death in the family, King Lion Gilchrist appointed Lion Alex Christie to serve as T. T. and although Alex tried hard he couldn't seem to find much wrong with things and his little 10 cent bank did not swell appreciably.

Everybody was glad to welcome Lion Frank Sellers who has been confined to the house for several weeks past by illness. Lion Sellers said he thought a good Lions meeting was just what he needed to put him back on his feet. That and the clam chowder. As nobody had brought the song books the sing song style of the Lions was cramped a bit, but by shortening up the program and calling on for songs that they learned at their mother's knee Lion Drew was able to get a creditable performance from the jungle warblers.

Local guests introduced were Vern Mossman and Dr. Schymen Nussbaum.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Neal Bousfield of the Maine Seacoast Missionary Society who had with him his assistant in the work, Mr. Williams, and a guest, Professor Ernest Thorne Thompson of the New Rochelle College, Prof. Thompson has spent many Summers in Maine in the vicinity of Bristol and Friendship, but was never down this way in the good old Winter time, the purpose of his visit at this time of year according to Mr. Bousfield being to study the wave forms in order better to paint them. According to last reports, with the Sunbeam laying at anchor in the cove on the South side of Green's Island, near Heron Neck Light, and the southwest breeze, agoing, that kept the Vinalhaven II tied up at the dock in Rockland. Professor Thorne had ample opportunity to study wave forms in all their 1001 varieties.

It was voted to hold a special observance meeting on Feb. 22 in honor of Washington's birthday, as the meeting night falls on that date.

The talk given by Rev. Bousfield was one of the most instructive and interesting ever delivered before the Vinalhaven Lions Club, bar none. Rev. Bousfield has been traveling up and down the Maine Coast for the past 10 years or more and has become familiar with its people, their lives, their hopes and their ambitions. His talk had to do with the development of the natural resources of the Maine Coast for the betterment of the people living along the coast, and dealt with the lobster industry, clamming, clam farming, the fishing industry, the pulpwood, forest products, granite and practically every phase of economic life that affects the coast-wise people.

One of the most interesting observations made by the Rev. Bousfield was his statement that nowhere was there a greater opportunity than in clam farming or clam cultivation, provided the State Legislature could and would pass the necessary legislation. Some of the figures and statistics quoted by the Reverend were not only astonishing; they were staggering.

As one Lion said after the meeting, "The Reverend certainly knew whereof he spoke. What he said was right down our alley. We all knew what he was talking about, and we also knew that he knew what he was talking about so all in all what he said had weight and carried conviction."

The Vinalhaven Lions Club is only too glad to recommend this speaker and his subject to any Club that might be fortunate enough to get him. At the next meeting Oscar Huse of Kent's Hill will be the speaker.

Careful Handling Removes Danger of Vegetable Rot

Every year a considerable percentage of stored squash and tomatoes is lost through storage rot. This causes loss of valuable food, off odors in the home, and a mess to clean up. Much, if not all, of this rot can be eliminated by care in harvesting, treatment of the harvested fruits, and provision of adequate air circulation in the storage room.

Obviously, any fruits which have rot spots at time of harvest should either be discarded or set aside to use soon. Much, if not all, of this rot can be eliminated by care in harvesting, treatment of the harvested fruits, and provision of adequate air circulation in the storage room.

As an additional safeguard, each squash may be dipped in a sterilizing solution to kill rot organisms which may be on the surface. A solution of 1 part Formalin (commercial formaldehyde) to 240 parts of water, or approximately 1 tablespoon per gallon, is frequently used. A solution of 1 part Chlorox to 8 or 10 parts water is also effective. Unripe tomatoes which are to be saved for later use should likewise be dipped in the Chlorox solution and then wrapped individually in paper. Such fruits will often keep for many weeks after killing frosts.

Elephant Throws Eagle

INTIMATE VIEWS OF VINALHAVEN

History, Home Life and Personal Recollections

By SIDNEY L. WINSLOW

The following is a letter from our Corporal Thaddeus Carver to his father, John Carver.

Ship "J. Morton," Dec. 1862
Thinking that a few details of life on board a transport might be interesting to you I will convey them to you as they come under the writer's notice after leaving New York.

Dec. 18. All on board but a crew and hauled into the stream; got a crew and left the city Saturday the 20th and anchored off Staten Island Sunday morning; got underway and proceeded as far as Sandy Hook the wind came ahead; anchored and lay till Tuesday and went to sea.

We had a pleasant but long voyage to Fort Monroe at which place we arrived Dec. 29. Nothing transpired on the trip worthy of note except that we spent Christmas on the passage. For dinner we had beefsteak smothered in onions.

Dec. 30. Went to Norfolk, the ship was ordered there from the fort; discharged our ordnance stores; that night we worked all night and the 31st commenced embarking the troops and found that the program and our destination had been changed since ordered from New York, instead of taking Cochrane's Legion for the Banks expedition.

We were to take on board the 67th Ohio and it is whispered we were going to Newbern, N. C. The troops are all on board and a tug has taken us into the stream.

We have on board in addition to the Ohio troops, 150 of the Spinola Brigade, making in all, over 900 souls. You may judge they are quite thick on board. We have also taken on board today's rations and we will not broach upon the stores that we took on board in New York at all, so we shan't have anything to do on the passage and I can't find any fault with that arrangement.

Jan. 1, 1863. Happy New Year to you and all the family. 7 a. m. Two tugs are already alongside with steam up puffing away and the merry song from the topgallant forecastle bearing up the anchor, assisted by a score or more of the sailors, indicate that they are outward bound. A fine breeze is also blowing from the N. W.

I understand that we sail under sealed orders to be opened when in latitude of Cape Hatteras; I would say here in digression, on entering Hampton Roads we passed two monitors bound out, towed by gunboats. One of them was an old one and we passed another going in.

There was also a transport ship that went in, in company that was ordered to Washington and one came down from Yorktown loaded with troops and stopped at the Fortress the day we arrived but I don't know where bound. There is not much of a fleet at the fort. But to return we passed Cape Henry at 2 p. m. with a fine breeze at the N. W. at speed of eight miles an hour and any quantity of the soldiers trying to see bottom already. We had a fine breeze through the night.

Jan. 2-4 a. m. Passed Hatteras

A Vinalhaven Native

Pvt. Maurice Lawry, before reported as killed in action. Issue of Jan. 9.

for wounded; other says to retreat on board in case they are whipped; but where the fight is going to be, if any, I can't tell. We can't find out what is going on here half as well as you do at home. We are but actors in the drama.

I am faring first rate since the soldiers left. While they were on board we didn't get much; when I say we I mean the Sergeant and myself. The Lieutenants live in the cabin and we do our own cooking in the passenger galley; we have plenty and that which is good and if we don't live well it is our own fault. There is a report here that they are going to make an attack on Wilmington. They will attack some place no doubt. They have some 35,000 or 40,000 men in and around Newbern and there are two monitors here in port.

I suppose you have heard before this reaches you of the loss of Monitor No. 1 bound to this place from Fortress Monroe on the night of Dec. 31. All on board perished and also an officer and four men of the gunboat in company who manned one of the boats to pick up the crew of the monitor when she sunk.

Jan. 11—The steamer S. N. Spalding arrived here last night and this morning learned that she leaves today for Fortress Monroe.

I hasten to close this and give you what particulars have come under my observation since the 7th. Two steamers have arrived here since then loaded with troops. We were ordered to sea yesterday and so was ship William Woodbury. The tug that took the Woodbury out came after us. We being aground were obliged to remain last night; our sailing orders were taken away from the captain with orders to remain in port till instead. They also sent a steamer after another ship but returned without her.

What those maneuvers meant I cannot tell. Report is current that they are going to make a strike on Wilmington and are only waiting for two more monitors and that we are detained to take wounded to the North.

Gen. Foster arrived here last night in the Spalding from Washington.

I understand an active operation will be commenced soon in some quarter.

I have no more to write at present except that my health is very good. From your obedient son,

Thaddeus Carver
Corporal Thaddeus Carver was killed at the Battle of Port Hudson May 27, 1863.

Differences in language are no barrier to economic and political cooperation among the independent American republics. Haiti speaks French, the other Middle American countries Spanish, Portuguese, the United States English. But, all speak the language of democracy. A small but important member of the United Nations, Haiti helps the world effort by producing rubber, bearing plants, sisal, sugar, bananas, tannin, and castor oil so important for high-flying planes.

Beans 'N Fish Cakes

Just What Der Captain Ordered For the Surging Ganders

It makes no difference now to the Gallant Ganders what they have for "eats," for be it turkey or just plain beans and fish cakes they seem to make it a habit to come in first. Having won three games in a row they are sitting on top of the alleys; also on top of the win column for the first time this year, and some of them are beginning to talk as if it was all over but the shouting.

With Gander Len Sanborn playing host to the two teams and a few guests last Monday evening, Der Captain Grimes produced from his battered felt fedora as nice a supper of beans and fish cakes as ever a bowl could wish, and it seemed to have just the right amount of pepper in it for the Ganders to put over their third win in a row by a big and decisive margin, for in spite of all the biggity talk that the Skippers made they could not do as good on the alleys as they did at the table.

While gathered around the table some of the skeptical brethren among the Skippers serenaded Cap'n Grimes with a sarcastic little ditty that ran something like this—

Eat, and live to die next day.
But der Captain just grinned and said that actions spoke louder than words and empty plates carried more weight than full ones. "I don't care who writes the songs for this crowd," said Der Captain, "as long as I hold the strings to the feed bag." To which everybody said "Yea, verily," and forked over another Cap'n keeps sights unseen, and mon compos mentis.

which they can no longer get. The teams work with as much as 1500 feet of rope in two equal lengths. One length of rope, attached to iron pegs driven into the top of the cliff and thrown down the side brings clouds of walling gulls aloft. This is the "guide rope," which the "egger" will grip when swinging. He ties the lifeline round his waist or on to his body-harness. The "egger" always tics his own knot. Then if it comes undone when he is down it is his own fault. Shoulder padding and a helmet are worn as protection against boulders dislocated by sawing ropes. The climber looks up cautiously, for his face upward just as a boulder whistles down? Stones dislodged by chafing ropes sing pass and rochet from helmet and shoulders. Rocky knobs, hardly noticed on the way down, suddenly appear to grow as they meet elbows and knees on the way up. Gulls scream delectively. Is it worth the risk? "No risk," says the egger. "With as many as 1000 eggs taken in a morning it is worth it."

This And That

By K. S. F.

Thirty-nine years ago a little group of people, touched by the plight of tuberculosis sufferers who had gone to Denver in search of the climate's benefits and been stranded there penniless, unwelcome and hopeless, started an organization with a capital of $1.10 to build a haven for them. In the group were several who had had the disease and knew what such a haven could accomplish. Their organization became the Jewish Consumptives' Relief Society; it now has national headquarters at 11 West Forty-second street New York, and it has expanded its $1.10 into a $2,000,000 free and non-sectarian Denver sanatorium equipped with the finest available facilities. The society is holding its anniversary convention to plan for finding this year's funds, for it relies for support solely on voluntary contributions from men and women who believe man's inhumanity.

Comment of an Englishwoman invited to dinner at an American officers' mess in London, after reading the menu: "Baked Indian pudding! My word, is this possible in a civilized country?"

Trees are held sacred by many primitive peoples of this earth who believe mankind originated from the trees.

Vern Sprague, Maine "character" says: "I got me one of them two-pants suits once outter the catalogue but I didn't like it—too hot."

Independence Hall, in Philadelphia, where both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were proclaimed—and the Bell hung from its beam of solid, hand-hewn black walnut, its shattered frame clinging by a fragile isthmus of ancient metal; its great tongue still.

Three armed guards never take their eyes off the bell, day or night. Mounted on a mahogany truck fitted with small-rolling casters, it could be rushed away quickly in case of an air raid. To the enemy, its shrine would be an inviting target, for in letters indelibly blazoned around its crown it says "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

That verse from the 25th chapter of Leviticus, chases in 1751, was a bold prediction as well as a command. The man who selected it has remained too long unnoticed. He was Isaac Norris, Speaker of the Assembly of the Colony of Pennsylvania. Step by step he fought for American liberties, yet did not live to hear his bell cry aloud the verse he chose for it.

Old Isaac Norris was chairman of a committee to get a bell from London Town that could be heard far and wide.

This is the way I felt when in the Church of Shakespeare in 1908: But in the solemn Stratford Church the air was chill and dank, and on the footmen tomb the evening shadows deepened momentarily. Then a great awe fell on me, standing there, As if some speechless presence in the gloom Was hovering and faint would speak with me.

Life will never be dull if you keep a sharp lookout. Just remember a brooder is apt to hatch misery.

There is a vast difference between wit and humor. All admire wit, but not all have that strong liking for humor, yet humor may be the least unkind of the two. There is a depth at times in humor that will catch the heart.

Did you know that in the temperate zones, weather travels from West to East?

The Army recently received a raw recruit of education and culture. On his first day at camp he was utterly exhausted after several hours of drilling.

"At ease," finally ordered the officer. "How wonderful is death," muttered the recruit. The officer turned like a flash. "Who said that?" he demanded. The culprit smiled wanly and replied: "Shelley, I believe, sir."—Phoenix Flame.

GEORGE T. WADE

The death of George T. Wade which occurred at his home on Camden street, Jan. 4 brought sorrow to his many friends and neighbors. Day or night he was ever ready with a helping hand to assist in any way he might either stranger or friend. No task was too great or request to small to require his prompt attention, young and old found in George Wade a friend.

Born in Rockland, Nov. 13, 1865, son of Margaret and Edwin Wade, he followed the sea for some years, and was known as the youngest mate to sail from this port.

April 16, 1894 he was married to Nellie Sweetland, daughter of Achsah and Abner Sweetland. After her death 37 years later he married Abbie Welch, who died in 1934. In 1901 he entered the employ of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company, and while there invented a number of devices to speed up production. He was foreman at the Hydrate Mill at the time of his retirement after 27 years of faithful service. Since that time he had conducted a tourist home with marked success, giving his guests the utmost attention.

Early in 1943 his home was practically destroyed by fire in which his little dog lost its life, and he never really recovered from the shock and the loss of his pet and companion. His health had failed steadily since.

Mr. Wade was survived by a brother Charles, whose devotion and care did much to lighten the burden that falling eyesight put upon him. He was for over 50 years a member of the Masons and Odd Fellows. Funeral services will be held at the residence, Jan. 7, Rev. John Smith Lowe officiating. The bearers were Arthur, Maynard and Clarence Gray and Alden Tyler. Interment in Sea View cemetery.

MRS. CLARENCE F. MILLER

Nellie Frances (Wood) widow of Clarence F. Miller, died Saturday at her Pacific street home, aged 77 years. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at Burpee funeral home, Rev. J. Charles MacDonald of the First Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be made in the Spring at Achorn cemetery.

Deceased was born in Rockland Jan. 3, 1868, daughter of Jonas and Augustine Harwood Kenniston, and is survived by a son, Clarence Pearl Miller, four half-sisters, Mrs. Frank M. Piper of this city, Mrs. Rose Norwood of Camden, Mrs. Myra Lorraine of Bangor and Mrs. Mary Chase of Hollywood, Calif., and a half brother, Harry P. Kenniston of Rockland. Another half brother, Edward L. Kenniston preceded Mrs. Miller in death only a few days.

Richard G. Spear, a member of the S.S.S. Red Jacket, now in the Maritime Service, has been guest at the last two Sea Scout meetings and gave a short summary of his latest trip. He answered numerous questions about life on ship and of the many places he had seen. Christmas greeting cards were sent a number of members now in military service. Robert Achorn, a new recruit, has been acting as O. D. for the last two meetings with Bob Gamble taking over the next two. At the next meeting movies will be shown and if possible they will be "talkies." Plans are being made for the annual inspection which will take place shortly.

Austin Smith, who has been a surgical patient at a Portland hospital and Mrs. Smith, are expected home today.

Mrs. Ann Alden, who recently suffered an injury to her right shoulder, is a patient at the Miles Memorial Hospital, Damariscotta.

Sleeper Bible Class met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. B. Norton.

A GIANT INDUSTRY Gears to War

Changes in Milk Utilization
Average 1942-44
Compared with Average 1935-39

"Where did the butter go?" is quickly answered by a study of this chart by the National Dairy Council. Eight billion pounds of fluid milk are necessary to make the extra cheese, dry whole milk, evaporated milk, and ice cream for America's fighting forces and for Lend-Lease. An additional 10 1/2 billion pounds of milk are being consumed to maintain the efficiency of war workers and the physical stamina of American civilians. This represents total increased requirements of 18 1/2 billion pounds of milk.

Milk production since the prewar period has increased over 14 billion pounds. This leaves a deficit of about 4 1/2 billion pounds of milk which has been shifted from butter production to other concentrated milk products also needed on the fighting fronts. That shift accounts for a reduction of 215 million pounds of butter, which, in addition to about 370 million pounds of butter a year taken by the government for fighters and for Lend-Lease accounts for a reduction of nearly five pounds per capita for civilians.

Most of the amount of milk sacrificed by civilians is going to the fighting forces in the form of their favorite spread—butter. The balance is helping to win the war by keeping workers and fighters properly nourished with other concentrated milk products.

Wets Versus Dries

Both Aspects Were Considered At Meeting of the Rockland W.C.T.U.

The W.C.T.U. held an open meeting Friday in the First Baptist parlor. Worship service was conducted by Mrs. Edith Tweedie, who brought an inspiring message, appropriate to the New Year.

Mrs. Clara Emery gave a brief survey of the year's gains and losses in the temperance field, noting the increased emphasis placed upon alcohol education, not only by the W.C.T.U. and other temperance groups, but by various educational, welfare and religious groups. The second School of Alcohol Studies, sponsored and carried out by Yale University, has given a national movement for alcohol education.

The National Safety Council has put increased emphasis upon dangers of drink to motorists and pedestrians, and has published statistics on accidents in the home, in which drink was a factor.

You and youth delinquency, safeguarding the recreation, and promotion of character building are themes discussed from every point of view by experts in social welfare, education and the church field. In this connection the National W.C.T.U. is bringing out a new Sound Motion Picture, "That Boy Joe," a dramatic study of juvenile delinquency.

Despite every effort of the liquor trade to avoid the limelight, the subcommittee of the U. S. Senate Committee on Judiciary carried on an 8-months investigation of the beverage distillers that publicly exposed their long continued methods of corruption and law defiance, and gave nationwide impetus to the gathering storm of indignation against the traffic as a whole.

Definite plans took shape at a meeting in Chicago, Nov. 27-28, attended by representatives from 12 states and District of Columbia, for a nationwide organization to be known as the National Temperance Movement.

On the losing side was the failure by the U. S. Senate to pass the S-860 bill, the former Sheppard bill, now the O'Daniel bill to drive taverns and beer parlors from the vicinity of camps, and the letting down of the long time dry Navy restrictions which now permits the transporting of beer in Naval vessels, and opening of beer contents in Navy camps on shore.

was granted the distillers to build up stocks even in the face of pressing need of denatured alcohol for war uses.

The great increase in liquor advertising and propaganda with consequent increase in sales and consumption of the same.

In the following discussion several "Wet" news items were read, and remarks by Rev. Mr. MacDonald in which he said that in his travels the past year he had noted the increase of drinking on the trains and in public places by both men and women. The fragrance with which they display it, shows a sad decline in public morals. It was the consensus of opinion of those present that only a great spiritual awakening could save America from a great catastrophe.

NATURE

Tree limbs as they are swinging
Are not in music, too,
Some go high, some go low,
And show the time as the wind does blow.

Or a silent stop which often comes
In the music or wind the same,
Makes us think of the season's mirth,
And the harmony and beauty of earth.
If we call to mind nature's same,
The good that He has wrought,
Our lives here will always be
To each and every one as taught.

So let us watch and sing with glee
As nature passes by,
And always look to Him to give
Everything in Earth or Sea or Sky.

CHANGE

Strange that out of darkness light can dawn,
Beauty uprising from fields now so forlorn,
So lifeless seemingly, so cold and dead,
With loneliness and waste around them spread.

Strange that the skies, so lowering,
drear and gray,
Casting their shadows, darkening all the way,
Can change from dun to fairest softest blue.

With rainbow's matchless promise smiling through,
Strange that the trees so bare against the sky,
Can seem by port of call to wings that fly,
Can shelter with their leaves each downy nest.

Welcoming back home the songsters they love best,
Strange, too, the night, the mystery that it brings
Sleep, with its dreams enchantment round us flings,
Revealing in light, making the dark things plain.

Making the young seem old, the old seem young again,
Strange, yet not strange, God loves the world He made,
The changing seasons, the sunshine and the shade,
The darkness and the light, He knows what's best.

To His unchanging will we leave the rest.

Continuation Of Committee's Report Presented By Edward C. Moran, Jr.

(Chapter 9)

Fire Department

A study of the organization and functions of the Rockland Fire Department suggests that changes of some magnitude are desirable.

The Fire Chief. For many years the services of the Fire Chief were on a part-time basis, and it has only been within the last two years that the office has been put on a full-time basis. There has not been time for the effects of part-time administration to be overcome. This is most certainly a full-time position.

The Fire Chief should be appointed by the City Manager for indefinite term and remain in office as long as he performs efficiently. He should have full executive and administrative authority over the Department, and be responsible administratively to the City Manager. Under the present political setup this office is subject to reappointment every two years by the Council, and all too often the appointment of a god man is held up or subject to "horse-trading" in the City Council. This condition does not lead to efficiency. It should be corrected by placing the office on a permanent basis and taking the department out of politics.

The Rockland charter requirement that the Chief of the Fire Department be elected every two years is not only a poor administrative system; it is a dangerous one. Here is one more important reason for revision of our city charter. We will have to make this change before we can receive a more favorable insurance rate classification for Rockland.

Fire Prevention. The first function of a fire department is fire prevention. Many of the benefits to the taxpayer accruing from fire prevention are intangible, but the reduction of insurance rates and the saving of taxable property are understandable in any language. In order that fire prevention may be effective, regular building inspections are necessary. Building and Fire Prevention Codes recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters should be adopted as ordinances in order that construction and repair may be guided by safe standards and provide an official guide for fire inspectors. A copy of every building permit should be delivered promptly to the Fire Chief. The mere adoption of codes will not in itself be effective; it must be supported by periodic inspection.

During the current year our Fire Department had some 800 inspections, but it has not the manpower to maintain the proper follow-up. A fire inspector and a fire patrolman are needed as part of an expanded department. The latter would operate during the night time, for the most part, and his function would be the study of occupancy habits and the reporting of unsafe or hazardous practices. His duties are not those of a policeman. He should be a fire prevention technician, specially trained to perform his duties.

Fire Protection. The second function of the Department is the saving of life and property when fire starts. The best insurance that fire losses will be held to a minimum is the development of a properly-equipped, well-trained and efficient Department.

Equipment. The equipment of the Department to maintain our present rating or to improve it is determined by rules of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. In addition to required equipment it is recommended that two-way radio be installed on at least one mobile unit, arranged for communication with the Central Fire Station; lack of this equipment may result in serious fire loss due to delay in notification of a second fire arising when the Department is already at the scene of the first fire.

Housing. The Central Fire Station is obviously inadequate and poorly located. The City Planning Commission should make plans for a new fire station, and plans for its financing should be laid to the end that the cost can be spread over a reasonable period of time and anticipated before actual building.

The building of a new fire station may be forced upon us much sooner than we think, in order to maintain our present insurance rating. In any study of plans for such a building, consideration should be given to office space, sleeping quarters, bath, recreation room, repair shop, hose storage and tower, wash room for hose and equipment and a detached drill tower.

Minimum Personnel. Assuming a minimum of three pieces of mobile fire fighting equipment, the minimum number of regular firemen should be three men for each such piece of equipment plus two extra men. This will allow for vacations, rest periods, and for fire inspector and fire patrolman. There should be a minimum of 3 call men for each regular fireman. The present force consists of 7 full-time employees, consisting of the Chief, Assistant Engineer and five other permanent firemen; there are 25 volunteer firemen, and a volunteer assistant engineer.

Personnel Qualifications. Applicants for positions in the Department should be 21 years of age and not over 30 years at the time of application. They should be of proven good character and should pass a

NAMED TO NEW POST

R. M. Gray, who has been Assistant Manager of Advertising-Sales Promotion, has been named to head the department of Esso Marketers, comprising the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania and the Colonial Beacon Oil Company, and operating from Maine to Louisiana.

Mr. Gray was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, and attended Indiana University and the University of Texas. Following college he spent seven years in the advertising agency business, including four and a half years with Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc. in Chicago and New York. He joined the Esso Marketers in 1934 to do field work for the Advertising-Sales Promotion Department. In 1936 he was placed in charge of media handling newspaper and outdoor advertising. Mr. Gray was advanced to Assistant Manager of the Advertising-Sales Promotion Department in 1942. Mr. Gray has also been Chairman of the Advertising Sub-committee, Petroleum Administration for War, District #1 (Atlantic Seaboard States) for more than two years.

rigid physical examination. They should have a high school education or its equivalent in other experience and training. All appointments should be probationary for six months, and made permanent only on written recommendation of the Fire Chief. The age limit of 30 is because voluntary retirement at 60 after 30 years service is contemplated under the pension plan, with retirement age at 65 compulsory.

Promotions. Political influence has played a part in promotion of employees; there have been cases where promotion was expected because of political "pull" rather than for ability or service. Promotion should be an award for efficiency on a strict merit basis and only on recommendation of the Fire Chief. Examinations (written, oral or both) should be given in all cases of promotion.

Training. Although required by State and insurance regulations, training is left to the Chief of the Department and therefore depends upon the personal factor. It should be governed by regulations and standards established by City ordinance. Advantage should be taken of George-Deen Act Federal Government funds available since 1939 for training purposes; application should be made to the State Department of Education through our local School Superintendent.

The Fire Chief should institute, schedule and supervise training and practice in hose and ladder work, pump operation and maintenance, fire control, mob psychology, rescue and first aid, salvage, house-keeping, study of various regulations, utility lay-outs and building inspection. Periodic examinations should be held to determine efficiency of personnel. Examinations may be written, oral, or a combination of both.

Rules and Regulations. The Fire Chief should establish such rules and regulations for the conduct and operation of the Department as he deems necessary; upon approval by the City Manager they should become the rules and regulations of the Department. Copies of these regulations should be filed with the City Manager and the City Clerk, and furnished to each member of the Department.

Records and Reports. The Chief should make such reports to the City Manager as he may require. Worth-while reports require a good record system. Up to now, the record system of the Department has been poor. However, the "Noting System" of fire reporting is now in process of adoption by the Department, which is a commendable step, and should result in excellent records.

City Electrician. Since practically all of the duties of the City Electrician (salary $300) are in connection with the fire alarm system, this official should be added to the Fire Department and therefore placed under the direction of the Fire Chief. The City should take every opportunity such as this to eliminate independent offices and officers and build a more cohesive and integrated municipal organization in its quest for efficiency.

Weather Like June

But Winnie Barbour, Teaching In California, Misses Changing Seasons

Onnard, Calif., Jan. 8

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—As I am enclosing a check for my subscription I thought this would be a good time to extend our best wishes for the new year to the members of The Courier-Gazette.

We read The Courier-Gazette as never before from The Black Cat to the classified ads and enjoy every bit of it.

Shirley is still stationed here at Port Hueneme, although the 106th Battalion, to which he was transferred in October, had the sea bags ready to go aboard ship the Saturday before Christmas. Fortunately, their plans were changed and they were unsecured so we had truly a Merry Christmas.

I am teaching Eighth Grade here at the Woodrow Wilson School and find it very interesting. In my class of 30, I have pupils from 18 States due to the Naval Base here bringing defense workers from practically all States.

The weather here is like June all

A Baptism Of Fire

Camden and Lincolnville Men In Regiment Which Showed Great Bravery

Sixth Army Group, France—Baptism of fire is an experience few soldiers ever forget—and the men of the 398th Infantry Regiment of the 100th (Century) Division have special reason never to forget theirs. For they went into action for the first time in one of the toughest sectors of the long Sixth Army Group front in Eastern France.

The enemy held prepared positions in dense forests. Their dugouts were deep, covered with logs, and well camouflaged. Their artillery the time and since Shirley came here in March we have had only one week of rain.

The poinsettia trees are in full bloom now and nearly every home is aflame with their brilliant color. The natives like to tell me of the terrible storms and cold weather they are having in the East, but we miss the changing seasons and are anxious to get back home again.

ley was placed on the mountainous heights that rose above the forest level. Tank traps, booby-traps, and land mines—many of the latter ingeniously fitted with tripwires—blocked the narrow routes and paths through the forest.

The 398th proceeded without delay to help take Baccarat, to cross the swift, flooded Meurthe River, and to press the Nazis further back toward the Rhine.

In the drive on Raon L'Etape, a strategic town on the 7th Army front, the regiment skillfully outmaneuvered the Nazis' prepared defenses and took the high ground which surrounds the town and commands a stretch of open terrain to the east—in the direction of the Rhine.

Members of this regiment include Cpl. Wallace H. Heal of Camden and Pfc. Harry F. Marriner of Lincolnville.
